Truck driver and motorcoach operator by trade; he was an entrepreneur for sure. He ran a common carrier route throughout the State of Wisconsin. This turned into starting a tour company under the name of Leisure-Way Travelers, Ltd, which operated in the United States and Canada. This business was expanded into a full service travel agency where motorcoach tours became very popular in Wausau, Wisconsin. This offered the couple to set up motorcoach tours for seniors. He as the driver and his wife as escort. This offered them an opportunity to travel to all of the United States and Provinces of Canada and to visit all of the major tourist attractions. In the years between 1985-1991, purchased a lodge in Northern Wisconsin and started an excursion boat business on the beautiful Willow Flowage. He built two vessels, The Wilderness Queen, which accommodated 80 passengers and the Northwood Star which held 55 passengers. These were used to operate nature sightseeing and dinner cruises.

An opportunity became available in 1991, in Conroe, Texas, where they purchased the sternwheeler "The Landing Queen". At the insistence of his wife, the vessel was re-named The Southern Empress. The first six months was spent renovating the vessel. Operation became available on September 8, 1991. It became a popular venue; open to the public for dinner cruises, corporate outings, wedding, and receptions and for motorcoach tours. The couple was very involved in the community. Business was sold in 2000. A couple of years were spent traveling to Wisconsin, Colorado and Michigan. Retirement wasn't for Glenn. The couple purchased the Montgomery Methodist Church and Fellowship Hall located in Montgomery. After spending some time remodeling, it was turned into a wedding facility with chapel and banquet/reception capabilities under the name of The Bells of Montgomery. He retired in 2002 for health reasons. He especially enjoyed going out with his luncheon group every Thursday, which consisted of Buddy Holcombe, Doug Dunaway, Charles Cluxton, Thurm Hartley, Bob Kendrick, Pastor Cabe Mathews, and Pastor Doc Jones.

A special thank you to Dr. George Boyle, Dr. Shane Simpson, Dr. Glen Berwick and to Dr. Paul Cunningham for all the great care, and kindness shown to him throughout the years. Health was a major problem for Glenn, but he always remained positive and had a smile on his face . An additional thank you to his caregivers, Karen Pruitt and Pat Mahlmann.

“ One of the most caring people I had the pleasure of working for, Glenn had a way of making you feel like family instead of a boss. He will be missed but, knowing he is no longer hurting makes his passing somewhat easier. Love you Glenn-
