Seeing you made me know you've made it to those white pearly gates, and I know your safe and I know your watching over us, your the brother I never had, you were my unpaid therapist and you were my husbands best friend the one who was always here for us no matter what, we could call to complain about things and it was like you never casted judgement on us, save us a seat next to you and love my babies up there, still give me hell so I know your here and and give me a sign, so I can look up and smile to know it's you Always love you and we will miss you you Give heaven some hell

“ I lived on Buckner Rd for a short time. While there, I dealt with some health issues that made it difficult to keep up with the yard work that needed to be done. Brian & my friend Dana stopped by one afternoon to say hi & when Brian saw that I was struggling with yard maintenance, he took it upon himself to come mow the following day. He helped me without really even knowing me all that well. After that, he would check on me periodically to see how I was or if I needed anything. His kind heart made a difference in my life and I've never forgotten it nor will I ever. The short time I knew him, he blessed me in many ways...

“ Brian was my person and my partner. We spent most of our time together from the moment we met in November of '23 until the day we lost him. There are so many memories I don't know where to start. We spent a lot of time in deep conversations while playing board games or dominoes (He always won at dominoes and monopoly), watching the romantic comedies (aka, chick flicks) that HE loved, cooking for and with each other, and working on projects together, and we made a great team! He loved to take me to all the places in the national forest that he grew up in. We'd fish, and swim, do donuts and get stuck in his truck. We did a lot of laughing and crying together, and there was a true love shared between us. Brian was a truly kind soul to everyone he met. He loved his whole family deeply but he loved his girls fiercely, and that was a beautiful thing to witness. Everyone called him a friend and he considered every one of them friends. He would always tell me about memories with each of them and he loved each and every one of them. Brian, the world is gonna be a rougher place without your kind heart in it. I will always miss you! I love you with my whole, broken heart.

“ When I met Brian I fell in love with his baby blues and his heart! I remember our first date and he didn't have a lot of money at the time, but he knew that me and my momma used to watch lighting bugs so our first date he loaded me up in his Truck and he took me to the back of the property and we sat for hours watching lighting bugs! And we even saved one from a spider web! We had great times from playing video games to mowing the yard! Our biggest thing was we were so competitive with one another that we would go fishing in the pond every morning and see who could catch the biggest fish! Of course I let him win some days 😂 but seriously he was an amazing person and had a heart of gold. Man I can't believe you're gone! Well Brian, Give Heaven Some Hell and hold it down til I get there! Oh and can you give my mom and dad a hug for me! Love you always and forever!
