“ I read this poem after my Mother passes away...

I am standing upon the seashore. A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the blue ocean. She is an object of beauty and strength. I stand and watch her until at length she hangs like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and sky come to mingle with each other. Then someone at my side says, "There, she is gone."

"Gone where?"

Gone from my sight. That is all. She is just as large in mast and hull and spar as she was when she left my side, and she is just as able to bear her load of living freight to her destined port. Her diminished size is in me, not in her. And just at the moment when someone at my side says, "There, she is gone!" there are other eyes watching her coming, and there are other voices ready to take up the glad shout, "Here she comes!" And that is dying.

- Henry van Dyke (1852 – 1933) American author, educator, and clergyman

*My Mother(Irene) and Daddy(Lester) were on the shore saying...
"There he comes!"*

We will miss Big Doug! He was so kind!

“ Sorry to hear about the passing of your dad. Glad that he was able to play a big part in our lives as Manuel and I were trying to make it. I remember that new years eve's party we had and he was dancing on the porch with us. Also, when he thought we weren't doing anything for Thanksgiving and invited us over. He was so kind to everyone. God bless each of you and keep in touch!

“ I am truly sorry for your loss and pray that you find peace in your heart soon. Your dad was truly an amazing person, loved to teach others, and will always remember his generosity he had. As a sibling that has a mother in heaven already I find this event as a rebirth for those who have passed and know in my heart that we will see them again one day and what a joyous occasion that will be. May GOD bless all of you.
