“ May God surround you with comfort and love for your loss. Our hearts are broken. My children and I have loved you all and considered this precious girl and her siblings to be family since they were babies even though they have all grown up and gone where life has taken them. Their roots were created in the Guillory home and the love they received there which I am so grateful for. We love you and all you have meant to us. May your love for each other sustain you now and in the days to come. Darla, Trent and Charisse

“ Oh, Vangie. Girl, you left with me with a million crazy memories that no one in the world would ever be able to compare to. How in the world did we make it through so much!? You taught me how to be strong and helped me transition into being a better mother than I could've imagined YEARS before you finally got your wish of being a mama. As selfish as it is for me to wish I had more time with you, my heart breaks more for that little miracle of yours. Your smile, your laugh, your loud ass voice!! Oh honey, I wish he was going to get to know you better.. It's not fair, babe. I don't think it's ever going to really stick. I'm just going to keep thinking you moved back home and I just don't get to talk to you that often. I'm never going to be able to comprehend how much we went thru together over the years.. When we would sit and think about the others we lost.. How did you become one of them!? All of those years, who can I talk to about it now? You never left my side once I got pregnant and helped me for so long after. Matthew is devastated.. He still can't believe it. I'm rambling. I love you, Vangie. I'm just going to keep talking to myself and wishing you were listening.

“ I will never forget you..you made sure of that. I thank you for my JJ Watt figure you got me for my birthday this year. He has sat on my desk since you gave him to me and will remain. I kept looking at him today and remember what you said when you gave him to me. I will miss that laugh and I will miss you picking on me about my Texans. I still have the papers you left all over my desk when Denver let my Texans have it this past October. You were an open book and always smiling. I will miss you greatly and truly glad I knew you. I was blown away when you told me you ordered me something for my birthday, but told me to calm down, it wasn't anything huge. Oh but it was, My JJ Watt figure insures I will never forget You! Hugs and prayers to your family. There was no doubt your family meant everything to you. Glad I met you and could call you my friend!!

Vangie was in our Girl Scouts troop with all the girls her age. She was so sweet and fun. Though I have lost touch with her, I will always remember her sweetness. Her mom and dad were always there to support all the girls all the time. My heart really goes out to Vangie's entire family.

I can't express the sadness that I have in my heart for this grave loss. I know that the pain that the family is suffering is unbearable but the memories will only bring comfort. Fred, Jean and the rest of the family will remain in our prayers during your time of grieving. We love you all and are here for you. May our heavenly father accept with open arms his newest angel.
