“ A Walk with my Father

Moments before our walk that afternoon I realized the path ended to soon. Not long enough to hold his hand, this amazing person, this loving man. Not long enough to engage his eyes and remember his ways brimming with pride. Not long enough to stand by his side as he was by mine. Not long enough to laugh with him. Not long enough to walk with his wife, to thank them both for my wonderful life. Not all the walks I've taken in my life, first as a child and now as a wife. I'll remember that walk I took with my father and always wish it could have been longer.
