“ *My love,
I'm sitting here trying to find the words to describe our life together, and nothing is coming to me. How do you talk about the love of your life and all the joy in a few short sentences. We both knew this day was coming but I'm not ready for it. I don't want to say all those things that people say, I just want you back with me. Thank you for loving me as I am, for not trying to change me. Thank you for accepting my kids as yours and being the best pawpaw ever to the grandkids. I love and miss you more and more every day. People say it will get better, I say when? How can it get better when a piece of me is missing? I know you aren't hurting, and that's a blessing, but you are still gone. You aren't there when I reach out for you and then my world crashes again. I'll always love you. Red* “ Sitting here remembering all the good times we've had....you and Janet, J.R. and me whether it was going to Nascar in Dallas, the casinos in Louisiana or just sitting on the porch talking. We've had some great times and they will be missed. I'm so glad we got to spend more time together after you were diagnosed because sometimes life gets in the way. Peaceful journey, we will take care of Red for you and we will catch you on the flip side.
