Yes, Jim's smile/grin was addictive..sweet sweet man! And I had forgotten until just a few minutes ago...all the "science-related" conversations we shared!

Just as quickly as Jim would pour out a story he would refill with something new going on in the world that he could share. He was a generous man who was educated & sent to educate others. The things he marveled at were details someone else passed by unnoticed. God always has a way of pointing these things out & Jim was his model man of doing just that. Jim is a good memory!
