“ Mom ... MotherI do love you so very much . I have had 47 years with you and I would never change one thing about it . You and dad taught me right from wrong .. when and when not to be assertive in my life . Mom you were the one that Always had a ear for all my troubles . To listen to me to hold my hand .. to fix my lil scrapes and cuts . To teach me what I really needed to know about life and the things would or could come . To be my best friend ,, my mom . Yes we had a lot of bad times . and a lot of you trying to pound things in my brain for what I should have to look forward to as a grown man . Mom I always heard you and what you said .. It just took me a long time to KNOW what it was you were saying to me . I am so very proud to have you and my father to help me become the man I am today .

I love you and always have and always will . Until we see each other again in heaven .

Your loving son , Robert

“ My strongest memory of Janell was her, Claude and a few month old James were sitting at our kitchen table. James pulled a steaming bowl of chili on himself. Poor Janell. My mom went into emergency room mode and grab the baby, had his terry cloth onesies off and had him under cold water. Avon had this product that was great for burns and little James left our house just fine. I know that Janell remember that incident and as a young mother herself, I am sure that was a huge learning experience that all of her kids benefit from. Keep hot food out of reach of kids, and don't freeze when your kids need you most. See you in heaven, Janell. I hear you were a great mom and grandmother....

*To, Claude, and the family, i am so touched by the deep and abiding love in your entire family for one another. It is so wonderful the way you all were quick to come to the support of Janell and Claude when they first got the sad news of her cancer. Claude you were Janell's rock and abiding support through out and she knew she was cherished and deeply loved. My prayers will be with you and the family as you journey through Janell's passing. We all love and admire you Claude and will be here for you as you go through your grieving from Janell's passing. May God guide and direct your steps and give you His blessed peace.
