Janice is preceded in death by her parents Escar O. Pace and Newell V.

Pace, brother Lloyd Pace, and stepdaughter Shannon Smallwood Lowrie.

Janice was born on April 2, 1939, to Escar and Newell Pace in San Angelo, Texas. She graduated from San Angelo High School in 1957. Janice worked for Bank Texas in Houston for 21 years before retiring.

Janice loved her family very deeply and treasured time together. Janice had a love for reading from a young age and particularly loved westerns by Elmer Kelton, books about Texas, gardening, and her hometown San Angelo, Texas. She loved gardening and seeing all the Texas wildflowers come to life every year. Janice was an excellent cook and spent many hours over the years teaching her children to master that talent. Janice loved music and was a talented piano player. As everyone knew, Janice was delicate and graceful and yet a little bit of a tomboy. She enjoyed fishing, pruning trees – you name it, she was not afraid to try it. Janice loved baseball, and you can be sure she did not miss an Astros game, come rain or shine. Her values were immeasurable and her commitment unwavering.

Lastly, however, most importantly, she taught her children by example to be brave, strong, and never lose faith.

A special thank you to all the staff at Harbor House (Hospice) for caring for our wife, mother, grandmother, and great grandmother in a most respectful and dignified manner.
