“ I am so much shock, I can't see straight. I wish I would of known of this sooner, I would of been to see you one final time at your funeral. You were such an inspirational person to me. You and I bonded from the moment we met. We have had so many fun times, even on my birthday on May 5th you were so tired from work, but you still came. Thank God I have so many pic's of you and your family. I will share them all with them. We only for a year and a half, but you made such an impact on my life in that short of a time. I don't know if I can even break the news to Destiny, she is only 11 but she loved you so much. OMG! I love you and miss you soo much. I don't have many close friends but you were one of them. I am thankful to have spent as much time as I did with you, but I wish we had more. You'd be so proud of me, I joined AA and quit drinking. I'm finally getting my life together, I called a few days ago to tell you, but your line was disconnected. I thought you fell behind on the bill or something. Never would of guessed this. I know you wanted to best for me, as I did for you and I am finally doing something about the wrongs I have done in my life. Our world has lost one of the smartest, sweetest, and caring people that the world has ever seen. Your smile could light up a room, anyday.

“ i knew jen in Japan. Sshe always had a smile on her face. She always was happy. No matter what the day had given her... Jen could find something to smile about. We where all supposed to be together again in a few months... a reunion of the "besties". It will never be the same without you JEN! You are loved.... save 4 places for your besties wherever you are... we'll meet again one day my friend!

To your family I say... My heart goes out to you, know that people loved her because she was an amazing woman. That same beauty will live on in the eyes of those children. So Jen... will never be gone!

“ I just found out today and at a loss for words. I knew Jenn in Okinawa and we had plans to meet up with our Oki group in New Orleans in Oct. and to wish her off into the Navy. Jenn will be missed! She was an incredible soul. Very open minded and never judged. I still can't believe she is gone. I stare at the pic on my desk of all of us at Club X, and I can't help but cry knowing that your beautiful face is no longer with us.

My condolences to Brian and the kids.

“ First of all let me say to the PO Ty for being my family during the hardest time of my life. "i wish u were here" is as corny as it gets but remains the echo and pain I will forever bear and repeat. All I c n e more is Jen in the blue eyes of an angel named Alana. She will dance in your shoes and carry your love in her soul. I miss you.
