“ I would like to convey my condolences to the family and friends of Ms. Joyce. I truly understand the pain of losing one so dear to you, especially a parent. I sought comfort in the bible passages in John 11. Jesus resurrected Lazarus, here on earth, before the very eyes of those he loved. We also, are given that same hope (John 5:28) We can only imagine the tears of joy when we too, are reunited with our loved one again. I'm sure Ms. Joyce will be missed by those who knew and loved her. Remember the experiences you shared together, pass them down to others and her memory will live on, not only in you, but those of whom you share them with. May you find comfort from those who surround you at this very difficult time. My sincerest sympathy to all of you.

“ Jamie we are so sorry to hear about your mom. Death always leaves us with a heartache no one but the Lord can heal, love leaves us with a memory no one can steal. It is difficult today to see beyond your sorry. I pray your memories will help you find comfort tomorrow. May the Lord wrap you in His arms and comfort you during this difficult time.

“ There will come a day when the tears of sorrow will softly flow into tears of remembrance...and your heart will begin healing itself...and grieving will be interrupted by episodes of joy...and you will hear the whisper of hope. There will come a day when you will welcome the tears of remembrance...as a sun shower of the soul...a turning of the tide...a promise of peace. There will come a day when you will...risk loving...go on believing...and treasure the tears of remembrance. All those sleeping in their graves will wake up and sing for joy. As the sparkling dew refreshes the earth, so the Lord will revive those who have long been dead.”-Isa. 26:19.
