“ Mr. Ken, as I called him, was our across the street neighbor that recently moved here from California, during that time we also became friends. A few days before his death he went fishing with my Husband, John, boating on Lake Conroe. He was always looking for something to do and often helped out neighbors and us as well with home projects as a good neighbor. He liked to talk about California and his friends who lived there also his family who lived near here in Texas. We will miss his good nature and his kind heart.

“ I'm so sad that you are gone Uncle Ken. The best memory I have of you is when you came to one of the family reunions in Arizona with your corvette. You asked if I wanted to ride and I said no, so your niece Megan went instead. What was I thinking?! Thank you for serving our country too. I will miss you and love you always.

“ We didn't keep in touch for many years since I live in Washington state. When we talked on the phone, we would discuss how our careers where doing. We had similar jobs, he built the computers and I built the software. He loved his cars and the water. I will miss him very much, life is too short. Barbara Lomax, Ken's other sister.

“ Thank you all for your great remarks. I am glad that he had a work family in CA to watch out for him. He was a great brother. He taught me how to do home maintenance. We were remodeling our father's house, my house, everybody's house. He was a great giver and loved to tinker. When he lived with me at the University of Florida, he built a digital clock and sold the plans to a company. Animals and children especially loved him. They didn't see his direct personality as being stand offish. No we didn't have enough time in TX with him but he was in good hands in CA. Wishing you there the best. Kay Herndon, big sister

“ My deepest sympathy to Ken's family. I was sad to hear of his passing.

Ken and I worked together at Micron for many years. Some people remember Ken as a stubborn, grumpy guy who argued a lot. This was Ken. But beneath the surface was a good hearted guy who went out of his way to help people. We talked a lot when he was at Micron and continued with emails after he left. We had our share of disagreements, but he would let out a laugh when I made a lame joke. I sought out his advice on cars, home repairs, TVs and anything else I needed to know. I was impressed by how much he knew. I think one of his greatest joys was building things. He talked about his workshop, the things he was making, and things he wanted to make.

In the last year at Micron, Ken talked about his retirement plans and the different places he checked out to retire. He picked Texas partly because he had family there. He appreciated the help and support he received from his family when he moved to Texas.

I don't know how religious Ken was, but I picture him working in his workshop in heaven, helping others, and still arguing. Rest in peace, Ken. It was a pleasure knowing you. You left way too soon.

“ I worked with Ken when he first moved to the Bay Area from Southern California 20 years ago. He immediately impressed me with his strong work ethic, and his breadth of knowledge. We became close friends over the past 20 years, and worked at several jobs together. During that time I learned how generous and willing to share he was. Ken spent almost a year helping me remodel my house, and never asked for anything in return - that was just how he was. His love and enthusiasm for the Corvette convinced me to buy one. We spent many happy days chasing each other along the coast, and throughout the Bay Area. It was sad to see him move away, but I'm glad that he was able to spend his last year near his family.

Ken - your time here was far too short, and you will be missed!

“ I worked with Ken for 10 years. He was very good at what he does and was multi-talented and knowledgeable about many things. He was good at heart. His life was his work. Too sad to see him go too soon when he had so much to offer to life still.
