“ 53 years ago I had my first look at this man I would come to know as my daddy. In the beginning, I thought the sun wouldnt shine and the moon and stars wouldnt appear without my daddy. in my teens and my young adulthood we grew apart. When Devon came along I began to realize how important my daddy was in my life and I set out on a quest to get closer to him. I wanted my children to know him the way I had known him. His sense of humor was unsurpassed. He touched my heart deeply on my last trip to visit him when he cried as I was leaving. I knew then how much he truly loved me. I love my daddy, and today I lost a piece of my heart and soul that will never mend completely. I do, however, feel a peace and calm that he will be watching over me and my children from above and I look forward to when I will see him again. Thank you daddy for just being my dad.

“ Marvin, was my grandpa. When I visited in April, I saw him lying on that hospital bed and I thought: I can't see this. I started crying when I saw him lying there asleep. Aunt e said he could hear me so I said "Hi grandpa, it's me Erin." as I was crying. Mom told me to go visit my grandpa first, which I wanted to but I didn't. I feel really bad now for not being able to see him awake. I regret what I did and I can't make it up. Grandpa, I miss you very much! I hope to see you soon! I love you. R.I.P. Grandpa

“ Uncle Marvin, you were the most awesome uncle. You taught me so very much. You would pull pranks on us and made us laugh non stop. There will never be anyone like you. I know that God needed you with him and for that I'm happy for you. Selfishly I am hurting and want you here. Danii and Aunt Pat and Teresa you continue to be in our prayers and I am thankful that you were there. Every event that you have and the sun shines that's him smiling down on you. He will always be close by. Love to you all.

“ Marvin, was the best dad any girl could ever ask for. He didn't have a negative bone in his body. I'm so proud and happy to have been able to call him my dad. He was my bestfriend and I loved him and continue to love him with all my heart. I will never forget him. I'm so grateful for everything he has ever done for me and for loving, caring, and supporting me in all of my decisions and throughout school. I just want to thank him for everything he's done these past 19 years. I love you so so much daddy. I miss you and I'll see you again soon. Until we meet again. R.I.P.
