She also leaves behind grandchildren Grant Taylor and wife Katelyn, Ty Taylor and wife Chelsea, Kim Taylor, Garrett Taylor and wife Cristie, Keith Miller and wife Leslie, Austin Miller and wife Marie, Mason Miller, Nina Perry, Randy Hayes, Darrell Miller, Jr. and Bonnie Sandretto and husband Tony. Ruby also leaves behind a host of great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Ruby began working at the SHSU cashier's office in 1978 before retiring in 1999. She loved meeting and helping the college students with their financial issues and treated it like a ministry. She often received notes of appreciation from parents and students who were thankful for the way she helped them navigate through paying for their tuition etc., and was selected by her peers as employee of the month in 1983 for her hard work and caring personality. Ruby also had a passion for crocheting and made several afghans that she would give as gifts to family and friends. But all who knew Ruby Miller knew that her greatest passions were her grandchildren and her Lord. In her mind, her grandchildren could do no wrong and she loved each of them fiercely. She was also very committed to her faith and was not afraid to tell others about her love for Christ. She was a loving mother, grandmother and friend and will be greatly missed by all who knew her.
