This is face I will always remember, with those dimples. Get teary eyed every time I think of you. Still cannot believe you are gone, even though to a better place, will always hold a special place in my heart.

“ You left us too soon but never wanted you to suffer. I am thankful we had such a wonderful conversation on the phone recently. I never got to meet your girls or husband but pray they get through your absence. May God bless them. Rip Tami until we meet again

“ Clifford, Mal, Roxy and Your Families,

We just learned yesterday morning, from Johnny Phillips, of Tami's passing just after we left the hospital Wednesday evening. We are so very sorry for your loss and just wanted to convey unto you and yours our deepest and most heartfelt condolences. Though both of us know that words will not give you true comfort at this time, we hope you will attain the strength and comfort, you will need, from your siblings, family members and friends at this tragic time in your life. The loss of someone close is something nothing in our lives prepares us for, yet something most of us will experience at some point in our life time. The only advice we can give to you at this time is that you take the time - time to grieve, - time to spend on yourself, - time to talk to friends and family about everything that is on your mind. The good memories, sad moments, whatever, and finally the time to allow yourself to heal and begin to feel better once again. As you know we both have lost someone in just the past few years and we are very much, still on the journey to healing. It is something we both are learning to live with and accept. Find new ways to bring friends and family closer into your life. I keep a few of my Dad's old hand tools in my tool box here at work and Mary has some personal items from her parents laying about her apartment... Just allow yourself to feel it all, knowing this is something many others out there are going through and/or have gone through and you can be assured that you can turn to them for support whenever you may need to. Take care of yourself and your babies. Try to remember all that Tami has added and given to your life and how it has greatly influenced and shaped the person you are today, and that doesn't ever have to stop.

*All of You and Your Families will be in our Thoughts and Prayers,
Randy Rolke & Mary Kenjura*
