“ Some of my favorite memories are from when y'all lived in the country. Almost every Sunday, your mom cooked for the preacher and my sister, Rosa, & I usually went out there, too. A lot of times we'd go out to the store house (during peanut season) and sit around out there and eat raw peanuts. Your mom would tell us that they were going to make us sick, but they never did. (fun) Then at one of your birthday parties was where I officially met George. Then, when we planned our wedding, you were going to be best man but you decided to join the Navy before our set date so we got a cousin of mine to fill in for you- you rascal! We kinda lost touch for quite a while but you were back in Ada for our 50th anniversary and you loved it. And our love and friendship was a lifelong thing. Actually, your family was just like having a second family to us. We loved all of them, too. Your mom was a great, sweet lady.
